Norse 2 bi-wire jumpers

IF YOUR AMPLIFIER doesn't support bi-wiring or if your wallet doesn't stretch to running double strands of good-quality cables to your speakers, these jumpers offer a viable and affordable alternative.

Bi-wireable loudspeakers usually have low-cost metal links installed for use with single-output amplifiers. The Nordost Norse 2 is made from a silver-plated 99.99999 percent solid-core OFC conductor wrapped in a spiral of micro mono-filament, which is then covered in an outer layer of FEP insulation. The jumpers are cut to a specific, mechanically tuned length for optimum performance and low loss. They can be supplied with either gold-plated spade connectors or Z-plug banana plugs.

The review samples are fitted with spade connectors at both ends and have a thick heat-shrink insulation that extends neatly over the spades.

Playing Eleanor McEvoy's The Meeting Of The Waters from Forgotten Dreams, the duet on the piano played by McEvoy and accompanist Damon Butcher blends beautifully with her husky vocals, while Carolan's Concerto with McEvoy on violin and Butcher on piano has great energy and clarity.

Jump start

Rimsky-Korsakov's Scheherazade performed by the Concertgebouw Orchestra of Amsterdam, sees the powerful opening move quickly into a gentle section played on solo violin. As the piece builds to a climax with the whole orchestra joining in, the amazing dynamics and deep bass are elegantly reproduced as the jumpers do a great job of conveying this power to my loudspeakers.

The Norse 2 may not be the cheapest jumper, but it matches its task very well, offering all the refinement you would expect from a set of high-end cables and so is a sensible upgrade to the metal links fitted to so many speakers. NR
